Transco Plans Storage Plant

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation today announced plans for a pioneering industry advancement — storage of natural gas in liquefied form at a plant in the heart of its major marketing territory.

The company will file an application for a certificate of convenience and necessity with the Federal Power Commission in the immediate future.

E. Clyde McGraw, Transco president, said the company has mastered complex engineering problems to permit construction of a storage plant for liquefied natural gas in the Hackensack Meadows in the Borough of Carlstadt in Bergen county, N. J.

The new storage to be available for the 1964-65 heating year will be drawn on only during the coldest winter days when pipeline capacity is insufficient to meet customers' demands. The new storage facilities relieve utility companies in New Jersey and certain Southern areas, who are Transco's customers, from providing their own standby supplies of gas for the limited number of days when the temperature plunges to the near zero level.

McGraw explained that under Transco's plans natural gas will be drawn from the company's main line in the Hackensack Meadows during the summer periods of low demands and the gas reduced to a liquefied form by subjecting it to extremely low temperatures, it can be stored indefinitely in liquefied from by maintaining a temperature of minus 259 degrees Fahrenheit.

In the conversion process, 600 cubic feet of natural gas in vapor form is reduced to one cubic foot in liquefied form. Conversely, one cubic foot of liquefied gas expands 600 times when returned to vapor, dramatically demonstrating the limited amount of liquefied storage space required for vast quantities of natural gas.

The proposed Carlstadt plant in the first phase of development will have an initial storage capacity equivalent to one billion cubic feet of natural gas, with a delivery capacity on the coldest winter days of 200 million cubic feet per day.

McGraw declined to estimate the dollar costs of constructing the storage plant, other than to say that it would be a "multi-million – dollar project" in the initial stage of operation. Additional storage facilities are planned for the immediate years ahead to meet the ever increasing demands for natural gas. It has been estimated by Transco's spokesmen that the over all dollar investment in the Carlstadt Storage plant in the years ahead will exceed $15 million.

The Carlstadt development will result in a substantial increase in the Bergen tax retables and is in line with long range plans for conversion of the huge Hackensack Meadows to commercial and industrial use.

Fire Warning!

Fires continue in Southside Virginia's forestland as cold dry weather and high winds steadily increase already dangerous conditions.

The Division of Forestry's Farmville District Office released figures of fire loses last week. Thirty forest fires have burned some 55 acres since December 1, in the southside, 16 county district. This loss is occurring during a time when, usually, only a few fires burn.

Foresters say that most fires are being caused by smokers in the woods, while some loss is occurring from smoking game from trees, trash and brush burning and hot ashes dumped in dry grass.

Forest fire lookout towers are continued to be operated in an effort to locate escaped fires early.

Forest wardens urge that no trash or brush be burned until rain has soaked the forestland. They remind too, that grass areas dry out quickly. Hunters and forest users are cautioned to be careful with cigarettes and all warming fires should be completely extinguished. Extra care is needed to reduce fire loses.

Veteran's Income Questionnaires Come This Year

RICHMOND, Nov. 29—Annual income questionnaires are included in the envelopes bringing pension checks this week to veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans. This is one month earlier than in past years. Laws requiring nonservice-connected pension payments require that the Veterans Administration receive income information every year. If the completed income card is not sent back to the VA by the end of next January, the pension will be suspended. If no card is returned after suspension, the pensioner will be required by the government to pay back all payments received in 1962.

Assistance in filling out the cards of those persons with fixed income, may be obtained now at the office of Lt. Col. Reginald J. Hatke, area director, Division of War Veterans Claims, 203 Governor street, Richmond. Those who are not sure of the total 1962 income may wait until after January 1.

Reminders From Postmaster

"While it's too late to talk about early mailing of Christmas gifts and cards," Appomattox Co. Postmasters said today, "We are grateful for your excellect cooperation to date on our 'Mail Early for Christmas' Campaign."

"Time means everything now", they continued — "Even a few hours delay in getting your cards and gifts mailed may mean disappointment to your friends and loved ones on Christmas Day."

With the Christmas mail load now in its peak, here are a few of the Postmaster's important reminders — Don't mail money in Christmas cards or parcels. — Use postal money orders or checks. — Be sure to include full name and address, postal zone numbers and your return address, written or printed clearly on every card and package.— Parcels of real value should be insured, and if they contain "Delicate gifts, mark them "Fragile", and foodstuffs subject to spoilage should be marked "Perishable".

The Postmaster suggests that last minute mailers use Air Mail for their Christmas cards and gifts that are going out of town. There is still time for local delivery, but all Christmas cards should be sent by First Class mail.

The Postmaster said, "Now is the time to start the end of the big rush, let's all keep up the good work so that we can empty my mail bag empty and every Post Office employee relaxing at home on Christmas Eve."

Respiration Disease Program Approved

The Case and Fact Finding Committee of the Southside Tuberculosis Association met December 10, 1962 in the Town Council Chamber, Farmville, at 7:30 p.m. to formulate plans for an intensive Respiratory Disease Program for the areas served by the association. The message to be put over is "If you have shortness of breath or a chronic cough, you may have a Respiratory Disease. Don't Take Chances. See Your Doctor."

The Target: Everyone, but particularly people over 40 and especially men. These are the chief victims of chronic RD, including tuberculosis.

The Purpose: Broadcasting this message is the immediate purpose of the 1963 RD Campaign. Its broader purpose is to save and extend useful lives by launching nationwide TB association activity aimed at public education about Respiratory Diseases, including tuberculosis.

A concentrated educational program will be conducted by the association members, urging Public Health Directors, Public Nurses, physicians and volunteers to assist in the program as well as representatives of other agencies.

The 1963 RD Campaign will be conducted by the use of posters, literature, TV broadcasts, news stories, magazine articles, film showing, and by word of mouth.

The slogan will be "Cough too much? Short of breath? You may have a respiratory disease. Don't take chances. See your doctor."

Those attending this meeting were: Dr. Anthony Munoz, Chairman; Dr. Ilse Lehmann, Co-Chairman; Mr. Fred Bracker, Director of Rehabilitation, Virginia TB Association; Mrs. Virginia Hutchings, PHN; Mrs. Odessa Branch, PHN; Miss Eleanor Hyslop, PHN; Mrs. Nellie Coles, PHN; Dr. Frenezis J. Clements, Health Director; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roby, Jr.; Melville Johns; Farrar V. Shelton; J. B. Pervall; Mrs. Emma G. Anthony, Executive Director, Southside TB Association and Mrs. Emily H. Bailey, Secretary, STA.

The Homemaker Spreads The Spirit Of Christmas

The Christmas spirit has been carried on through the centuries by the homemaker, most of the ideas and work have been done by her. She it is who imbues the rest of the family with the Christmas spirit in those busy days beforehand.

She bakes, she sews (not nearly so much as she used to though), then it's time for wrapping the gifts and decorating her home. If she is planning on entertaining there's silver to clean (nobody wants to help with this job), supplies to be gotten for the days ahead.

Daughters catch the spark early, they are eager to stir cake preparations, help cut out the cookies—stars, little trees, gingerbread men, and other fancy shapes. Candy—oh, they must taste. When older, they want to decorate the gift packages with their original ideas.

The menfolk do the outdoor part, buy or, in the country, cut their own tree (they usually want one to the ceiling), and bring in the Christmas greens for indoor and outdoor beautification.

A few long-leaf or short-leaf pine branches, a bow of red ribbon, maybe some pine cones, placed on the front door at Christmas time can brighten the appearance of a whole community and arouse the Christmas spirit in even a "Scrooge."

Everyone who can be is at home on Christmas Day but there are always a number of travelers passing through a community before and after "The Day." The cheerfulness of a decorated door; at night, Christmas tree lights glittering and shinning through the windows, sends the passerby on his way with the thought, "This is a friendly place in which to live." and with a warm spot in his heart he goes on his way.

Take a few minutes of your time, homemakers, to fix some kind of a decoration for your door; it takes only a little bit of ingenuity and time. You'll never know for how many people it makes a bright and shining path through your home town.
